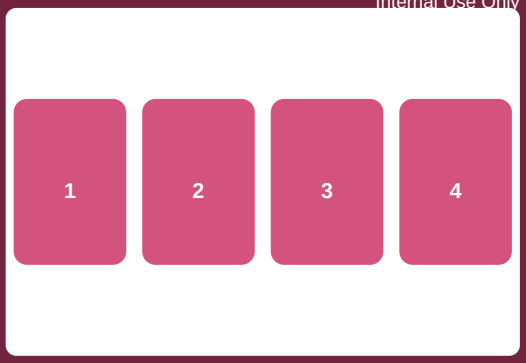
Competitive Analysis

Systematically research and compare competitors on product, price, positioning, channels, and strategy to identify threats,



WHEN TO USE

Before launching a new product or market; when win rates against specific competitors are declining; during annual strategic planning.

HOW TO APPLY — STEPS

1. Define the competitive set clearly — direct and indirect competitors relevant to each market segment
2. Research each competitor across agreed dimensions: features, pricing, positioning, channels, messaging, financials
3. Identify specifically where you are stronger and where you are weaker than each competitor
4. Define a strategic response for each material gap or vulnerability identified
5. Update the analysis at least quarterly — competitive positions shift faster than annual reviews can track

PRACTITIONER TIP

! Base competitive analysis on observable evidence — not on anecdotes from the sales team about why they lost deals last month.

KEY OUTPUTS

- Competitive comparison matrix
- Market positioning map
- Threat and opportunity assessment
- Strategic response plan with prioritised actions

HOW TO MEASURE SUCCESS

Win rate trend vs specific named competitors; market share position; positioning differentiation score from customer survey
